An aerial photograph of a large white sailboat with two masts, anchored in a small, crescent-shaped bay. The water is a vibrant turquoise color, revealing the rocky seabed. The bay is nestled between steep, rocky cliffs covered in dense green vegetation. On the left side of the bay, a small sandy beach is visible. Two small buildings, one with a red roof and one with a grey roof, are situated on the hillside overlooking the water. The overall scene is a picturesque coastal landscape.
